Before my father married a second wife life was quit fine, we had a small retail shop at home which acted as an income generating project for our family, but the moment my father got another wife, is when he started to come for money always from the retail shop which made which caused a big fight between him and my mother always, one day my father terribly beat up my mother to an extent of being admitted in hospital, and after recovering she never came back home to live with us again. So my father decided to start staying at his new wife's house after taking everything that was in the house to his new wife's house too. I was left in this empty house with my younger brother when two thieves broke into our house and when they out that there was nothing to steal from our empty house they wanted to rape me but we started to scream very loud and they ran away, so the next morning one of our mother,s friends brought me to M-lisada and remained with my younger brother since then I have never heard from both my father and mother but at M-lisada I started learning cultural dances and drama and last year I sat for my primary leaving examinations and right now iam in senior one.

I want to become a magistrate.
